Let

Subject + let + object + bare infinitive (infinitive without 'to')

'Let' can mean 'allow' or 'give permission':

David's mother let him use her car.
Our boss let us leave early.

We can also use 'let' to mean 'allow' in the sense of 'make something possible':

This student card lets you book discount flights.
You can buy a pass which lets you visit all the art galleries more cheaply.

Let's + infinitive is often used to make a suggestion:

Let's go to the cinema tonight.
Let's get some coffee.

Make

Subject + make + object + bare infinitive (infinitive without 'to')

'Make' can mean 'force someone to do something that he or she doesn't want to do':

His mother made him clean his room.
The teacher made us study very hard.

It can also be used to mean 'cause someone to do something' (the thing can be good or bad):

That film made me cry.
My brother often makes me laugh.

If we use 'make' in the passive, we use the infinitive with 'to' instead of the bare infinitive:

She was made to work on Saturday, even though she hated working at weekends.

We can also use subject + make + object + adjective. This means 'cause the object to be the adjective' (the adjective can be good or bad):

Her story made me really happy.
The traffic jam made us late.
